Peter Custers : Capital Accumulation and Women's Labor in Asian Economies before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Capital Accumulation and Women's Labor in Asian Economies:

The global impact of Asian production of the wage goods consumed in North America and Europe is only now being recognized, and is far from being understood. Asian women, most only recently urbanized and in the waged work force, are at the center of a process of intensive labor for minimal wages that has upended the entire global economy. First published in 1997, this prescient study is the best available summary of this crucial process as it took hold at the very end of the twentieth century. This new edition brings the discussion up to 2011 with an extensive introduction by world-famous economist Jayati Ghosh of New Delhi's Jawaharlal Nehru University.

'An important contribution.... This work is a definite advance on the current literature on Marxian analysis, as he incorporates the gender dimension.' - Swasti Mitter, co-author of Dignity and Daily Bread
About the Author Peter Custers has taught at the University of Nijmegen, Netherlands. He now works as a researcher and writer and is involved in the Clean Clothes Campaign, a European network campaigning for better working conditions in the international garment industry.
