This book encourages you to start to make things happen in your career, packed with practical tips and advice.

About the Author John Lees has been involved in the training and developing of recruitment specialists since the mid 1980s, from both public and private sectors. He undertook an advisory role to the RN careers service, and has provided help for Army personnel beginning civilian careers. He was Chief Executive of the Institute of Employment Consultants (IEC) until 1993 when he left to become a Director of TGA, an employment research and careers advisory company. In 1999 he decided to go it alone and now runs his own human resources consultancy, specialising in career management and developing new tools to help with difficult career change decisions. John writes and speaks widely, and amongst his regular commitments acts as an online careers "guru" for lifebyte.com. John is a Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Personnel Development (FCIPD) and Fellow of the Recruitment Employment Confederation (FREC).
