

Green Jobs: A Guide to Eco-Friendly Employment

A. Bronwyn Llewellyn , James P Hendrix
*ebooks | Download PDF | ePub | DOC | audiobook

#1121607 in eBooks 2008-03-01 2008-03-01 File Name: B001PBSDV6 | File size: 76.Mb

A. Bronwyn Llewellyn , James P Hendrix : Green Jobs: A Guide to Eco-Friendly Employment before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Green Jobs: A Guide to Eco-Friendly Employment:

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Two StarsBy felines100This book does not have good information for someone seriously interested in GreenJobs.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Great bookBy Momma NunnVery helpful in seeing new areas of green jobs. Easy to read and jobs are not listed by talked about18 of 26 people found the following review helpful. Great starting point and referenceBy John Bergdoll'Green Jobs' mixes an abundant amount of information in an easy-to-follow narrative with plenty of website links. Besides being helpful in the job search, it presents an accurate picture of the growing possibilities in the sustainable world.

Going green isn't just recycling any more. With this comprehensive guide, readers can find the job of their dreams—and sleep better at night.

About the AuthorA. Bronwyn Llewellyn, M.A., is a veteran writer and editor who has written several books and museum exhibitions on technology, natural history, climate change, green design and architecture, and the environment. She is the editor of The Healing Touch of Horses and the author of The Everything Career Tests Book. She lives in the San Francisco Bay Area. James P. Hendrix, Ph.D., has spent most of his career as an educator, at both the university and secondary levels. He presently works part time as a fly-fishing guide, educational consultant, and lecturer on the Lewis and Clark expedition. He has published numerous articles and book reviews and is a long-standing advocate of environmentalism and sustainability. When not backpacking in Colorado, he lives in the mountains of western North Carolina. K. C. Golden, M.A., is policy director for Climate Solutions, a research and advocacy organization pioneering practical and profitable solutions to global warming. Before this, he served as a special assistant to the mayor of Seattle for clean energy and climate protection initiatives. Golden was a Fellow at Harvard University's John F. Kennedy School of Government, where he received a master's degree in public policy. He lives in Seattle with his wife and two teenagers and is an insatiable river enthusiast.