Marcia Horowitz : Health Care Management (Ferguson Career Launcher (Hardcover)) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Health Care Management (Ferguson Career Launcher (Hardcover)):

According to U.S. government projections, employment in the health services industry is projected to increase 27 percent through 2014, adding about 3.6 million new jobs over the 2004-2014 period. While many of those opportunities will be for medical practitioners such as doctors and nurses, demand is also expected to increase for those who manage health care, such as hospital administrators. The expanding and increasingly complex health care system in the United States requires skilled, capable workers to develop and maintain the administrative framework within which doctors work.
