From Routledge : The Eurozone Crisis and the Transformation of EU Governance: Internal and External Implications (Globalisation, Europe, Multilateralism series) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Eurozone Crisis and the Transformation of EU Governance: Internal and

External Implications (Globalisation, Europe, Multilateralism series):

Research on European governance is central to understanding both the process of European integration and its external influence as a laboratory for multilateralism. This volume focuses on the impact of the recent Eurozone crisis and its far-reaching implications for European governance both inside and outside the EU borders. Ideal for classroom use, this volume covers: I. European modes of governance: concepts, recent trends and international implications with chapters by Lefkofridi Schmitter, Cini, Borrs and Radaelli. II. The transformation of European economic governance with contributions by Fabbrini, Stoffaels, Collignon, Eising, Rasch and Rozbicka. III. The transformation of European social policy governance with Goetschy, Hemerijck, de la Porte and Heins. IV. The international implications of the transformation of EU governance highlighted by Rodrigues, Xiarchogiannopoulou and Muuml;gge.

'The EU is once again in transformation, experimenting with reforms of its internal and external governance in response to the Euro crisis. No one knows yet how this reform process will play out, but its consequences are sure to be momentous, not only for the EU itself, but also for the wider global order. To analyze these developments, Rodrigues and Xiarchogiannopoulou have assembled a stellar group of scholars, whose kaleidoscopic reflections will be of compelling interest to anyone concerned with the future of European governance.' Jonathan Zeitlin, University of Amsterdam, The Netherlands 'Connecting the Euro crisis and EU governance issues, this book is as timely as socialscience volumes get!' Gerda Falkner, University of Vienna, Austria About the Author Maria Joatilde;o Rodrigues was elected Member of the European Parliament in 2014 and was then elected by this Group as its Vice-Chair, in charge of Economic and Social Policies and working with the Committees of Social Affairs, Economic Affairs, Internal Market, Education and Gender issues. She was Professor of European Economic Policies at the Institute for European Studies, Universite Libre de Bruxelles (IEE-ULB) and the Lisbon University Institute (ISCTE-IUL). She was minister of employment in Portugal and developed a European career since then. Known as the 'mother of the Lisbon Strategy', she has been special adviser to the European Commission, several EU Presidencies and national governments. By chairing several EU high-level groups and preparing European Council meetings over the last fifteen years, she has been involved in the design and implementation of several EU policies: the strategy for growth and jobs and the economic and social policies, the Lisbon Treaty negotiation, the Erasmus Programme and the New Skills for New Jobs Initiative, the strategic partnerships with China, Brazil, South Africa and USA and more recently, the Eurozone crisis. She was the chair of the Advisory Group for socio-economic sciences in the European Commission in charge of preparing the 7th Framework Research Programme, has many publications including ten books and delivered many conferences in and outside Europe. She is also Member of the Advisory Board of the European Policy Centre (Brussels) and of the Governing Board of Notre Europe (Paris). Maria holds three Masters's degrees and a PhD in economics from the University of Paris 1 Pantheon-Sorbonne, as well as a Degree in Sociology from the University of Lisbon. Among several national awards, she got Leacute;gion drsquo;Honneur at Officier grade in France. Eleni Xiarchogiannopoulou is a post-doctoral research fellow at the Institute for European Studies, Universiteacute; Libre de Bruxelles, Belgium. Previously she worked at the European Institute, London School of Economics. Her current research focuses on social conditionality in EUrsquo;s external trade policy and the EU/ILO relations in the area of flexicurity.
